

Information Sheet: Journalism

Journalism

Kansas Resources & Connections

Strong journalism programs not only foster students' ability to read, interact with, and produce high quality non-fiction, but they also teach students how to evaluate sources, exercise their right to free speech, and interact with an audience through digital, print, and other mediums.

Journalism is not only an extension of the English Language Arts, but it is a direct application of the skills we wish to develop through our rigorous ELA programs. Use this information sheet to access quality resources related to your Journalism and/or Yearbook program.
